

A large, light blue plastic tank, likely a water reservoir, is the central focus. It has several ports and connections. A yellow hose is connected to the top left. A black vertical pipe extends from the top right. A black horizontal pipe is connected to the side. A white plastic jug is placed on the floor next to the black vertical pipe. In the foreground, there is a black tray containing several small, brown, cylindrical objects. To the left, there are more yellow hoses and a green plastic bottle. The background shows a concrete floor and other equipment, including a blue metal frame and a large blue barrel.
