Blackmagic Mini Converter UpDownCross HD

Mini Converter UpDownCross HD is a standards converter that converts any SD or HD video format to any other SD or HD video format converted. Just specify the desired output format and the input format will be converted automatically. This protects valuable equipment from receiving incorrect signals. HDMI computers can also be effortlessly connected to SDI projectors via the Mini Converter UpDownCross HD. The converter then upscales the video sent from the computer to your chosen TV output standard. The Mini Converter UpDownCross HD has multi-rate 3G-SDI connections for working in all formats up to 1080p/60 including Level A and Level B. It also scales computer resolutions via the HDMI input. So you benefit from an HDMI input, a reference input, audio delay for perfect AV synchronization, timecode conversion and 3G-SDI as well as HDMI inputs and outputs for connecting all imaginable devices.

Convenient operation

The built-in switches allow you to change the Mini Converter's settings on the fly. This is great when you need to be quick – without navigating through complicated menus. There's even a circuit diagram printed on each converter, so you don't have to reach for the manual. However, you can also specify settings using the supplied Converter Utility software. To do this, connect the converter to a Mac or PC. The software of all models can be updated via USB. Simply connect Mini Converter to a Mac or PC and install upgrades directly from the Blackmagic Design website. For example, updates expand Mini Converter to include new video standards and technologies as they become available.
